The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) recently released a public statement regarding disclosure practices in the municipal market. As issuers and other market participants continue to grapple with the effects of COVID-19, there is uncertainty surrounding when and what information issuers should provide to the market. This webinar is intended to help governments understand their disclosure requirements under federal securities laws. Panelists will discuss how the public statement affects issuers, as well as how disclosure practices may change in response. A review of GFOA's best practices and the importance of developing and maintaining disclosure policies and procedures will also be addressed.
